Nancy Partridge is always on her feet these days. The 45-year-old Westminister resident is training to run the Post-News Colfax (half) Marathon to raise funds for Lifespark Cancer Resources in May and also training to walk the Avon Walk for Breast Cancer in June. Between the two events, Partridge is working to raise at least $5,000 for cancer research, education and treatment.

Preparing to run 13 miles and walk 39.6 miles, involves training for about ten times as many miles. In overlapping training schedules, Partridge runs four days a week and walks six days a week. She is also leading training walks for other walkers in the Avon Walk on Sundays in April and May; and is co-captain for the Lifespark running team, recruiting and coordinating marathon, half-marathon and relay runners.

This is Partridge's first year with the Lifespark running team, and her eighth year walking an endurance walk for breast cancer. "But, since I walked the Avon Walk last year, my junior high art teacher lost his wife to breast cancer and my sister's boyfriend lost his sister to breast cancer. The fact still remains that every three minutes, a woman is diagnosed with breast cancer. And every year, more than 40,000 women die of the disease. With education and treatment, many of those deaths can be prevented. I'm asking you to help me make that possible," Partridge said.

Lifespark volunteers work with cancer patients at Denver Health Medical Center, Swedish Medical Center, and at off-site locations. For more information go to www.lifesparknow.org.
